Lessons Learned on Implementation of PBIS in High Schools - Current Trends and Future Directions

By July 2017, PBIS was being implemented in more than 3,367 high schools in all 50 states—a growth from about 1,000 in 2010. Because of the increase in the number of high schools implementing PBIS, there is now a greater understanding of the unique characteristics of high schools that impact effective implementation of PBIS. This document was designed to provide information and strategies that can be used as needed by administrators, coaches and Leadership Teams to address their unique needs.

Loving the Students We Feel Stuck With

Each year, teachers enter a familiar classroom and greet unfamiliar faces as they welcome in a new batch of learners. What happens when those new students don’t measure up to expectations, don’t match our preferences, and present us with challenges we weren’t prepared for in college?! In this article Heidi Douma reflects on her first days of school, and offers some tips for loving the students you are “stuck with” this year.

Your Foolproof Plan to Create Buy-In That Sticks

Often when we talk about positive behavioral interventions and supports (PBIS), we focus on student behavior — what it looks like, how we can improve it, reward it, discipline it, and report it. What about the role of the adults? This is the second in a series taking a closer look at the roles adults play in implementation.
